June/July 2014

Lots of pictures of the BIALL annual conference this month,

For the second year running, Wildy's have won the prestigious Supplier of the Year Award.

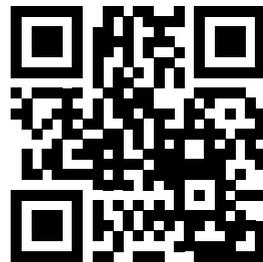

We have pictures of all the award winners, including the LexisNexis Library Award winners which were presented at the conference. Our special congratulations to our friends and neighbours at Lincoln's Inn Library.

The team at the conference included John Sinkins, Brian Hill, Alden Bowers, Jason Crimp, Tina Hartley, Wai Hing Lau and Abbie Sinkins. This was Abbie's first BIALL conference. Abbie is the 4th generation of Sinkins' to work in the company. Her great grandfather started in 1895, followed by her grandfather and father. Abbie has worked in the shop for three and a half years and will shortly take up the position of representing us in Southeast England. If you are in the Southeast and would like her to call in to see you, please let us know.

New 19TH Edition • Harvey McGregor QC

Written by the respected Harvey McGregor QC, the standard work and leading authority on the law of damages for 150 years publishes its 19TH edition this summer.

New for the 19TH Edition:

- Detailed coverage of the impact of the European Directive, implemented in the United Kingdom, on the damages to be awarded in our intellectual property statutory torts
- Full documentation on the progress of the Court of Appeal holding that an injured person has an absolute right to choose private care over state-funded care, in the revolutionary Peters v East Midlands SHA
- Commentary on how new discounting criteria for contingencies of life in the Ogden Tables has lead to virtual disappearance of Smith v Manchester awards
- Explanation of the new practical approach to uncertainty over a defendant's contractual obligations that Durham Tees v bmibaby takes

TEACHING LEGAL HISTORY: Comparative Perspectives

Robert M. Jarvis (editor)

JCL Studies in Comparative Law No. 9

Price: £65.00
ISBN: 9780854901456
Extent: 310 pp
Binding: Hardback

Sixty-four leading legal historians ruminate on their own approaches to teaching legal history in nearly a third of the American law schools: what they teach, why they teach as they do, how they structure their courses, and what they expect their students and themselves to take away from the study of legal history. The diversity of approaches to the teaching of legal history as demonstrated in this collection is impressive and fascinating, and at the same time quixotic, unsystematic, not integrated into the law curriculum, and not comprehensive or thorough.

The contributions are full of inspiration, creative imagination and resourcefulness, self-criticism, insight, and a shared conviction of the importance of a knowledge of legal history for the future of the law teacher and the legal practitioner. They address: legal history in the law school curriculum; legal history and the common law tradition; legal history and the United States Constitution; challenges of the legal history course; finding one's voice as a legal history lecturer; teaching aids; locating and using legal history sources; local sources of legal history; legal history and the public, business community, and government; legal history and civil rights, the African-American experience, and women; transnational legal history; English legal history, Hispanic legal history; legal history and the American legal profession, judges, and the development of legal skills.

Robert M. Jarvis is Professor of Law at the Nova Southeastern University Shepard Broad Law Center. He received a B.A. from Northwestern University, the J.D. from the University of Pennsylvania; and the LL.M. from New York University.

PASOLINI'S ITALIAN PREMONITIONS:
Same-Sex Unions and the Law in Comparative Perspectives

Maria Frederica Moscatti

JCL Studies in Comparative Law No. 8

Price: £65.00
ISBN: 9780854901357
Extent: 332 pp
Binding: Hardback

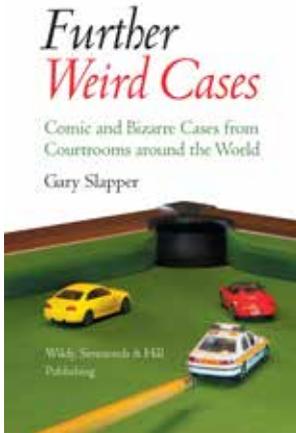

This book considers legal, procedural, and social aspects of the development of the phenomena of same-sex unions and their disputes across a broad range of jurisdictions over the past three decades. It offers a comparative analysis within the discourses of family law, anchoring that analysis in an empirical account of relevant developments, and the controversies surrounding them, in Italy. The study focuses on Italy as a revealing case-study of the issues, because it is a jurisdiction where the arguments for and against legal recognition of same-sex unions have been put forward within a particularly close relationship between legal developments, culture, social values (including religion) and political interests. From that empirical focus, the book proceeds to a comparative study, analysing effects and consequences of same-sex unions and disputes in other selected jurisdictions, and showing the manner in which law and society, including religion, have influenced each other in this area.

The study argues that legal recognition of same-sex unions is not a manifestation of tolerance but rather is a development within society and its law depending on several cultural factors. It emphasises that same-sex unions have long been part of family law in many cultures around the world. Despite their importance, the sometimes long-established accounts of same-sex unions and disputes have been an almost completely neglected area of study in comparative family law. The reason for such neglect of practices and discourses lies mainly in the methodology used in comparative family law.

In order to reach these conclusions, and underpinning the comparative aspects of the study, this book draws upon not only legal, but also anthropological analysis of social values, religious attitudes, and law regarding same-sex unions and disputes.

The book is intended as contribution to the study of comparative legal studies and access to justice and by considering legal and social developments in the Italian legal culture it also fills a gap in the literature by offering a detailed analysis of legal and social developments of issues and debates related to the rights of same-sex couples in Italy.

FURTHER WEIRD CASES
Comic and Bizarre Cases from Courtrooms around the World

Gary Slapper

Price: £11.95
ISBN: 9780854901340
Extent: 178 pp
Binding: Hardback

This book, the third in a series, provides another instalment of extraordinary cases from around the world. Based on the author's popular Times Online column, Further Weird Cases draws on cases and stories from many countries, including the UK, USA, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Germany, Mexico, Italy, Japan, Romania, and China and contains a great variety of shockingly strange and entertaining courtroom dramas.

The cases featured in Further Weird Cases are those that truly stand out as odd, even among all the unusual dramas that challenge the courts: a man from Florida who had his hand bitten off by an alligator who was then convicted of "illegally feeding an alligator"; a man imprisoned for 50 years for sealing a packet of pork ribs; two men in Italy who broke the law by dying in a place where it was illegal to die; the case in Scotland that collapsed when a dog due to give evidence died before the trial; a case in Brazil in which an election candidate had tried to gain votes by including a free sample of cocaine with each election leaflet; a case determining whether it is theft for a shopper to go to the 'free sample' counter of meat in a supermarket, fill two bags with the samples, and exit; and what happened to the defendant who urinated in the judge's waste paper bin. These further weird cases are organised in themed chapters related to topics such as, sex and love, food and drink, unusual punishments, pets and animals, and driving.

This book is a highly entertaining read for anyone who enjoys reading about the more bizarre aspects of human life that fetch up in the law courts at the beginning of the 21st century.

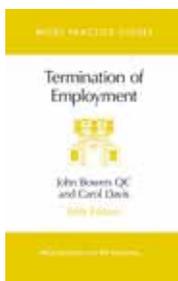

Gary Slapper is Global Professor, New York University, and Director of New York University, London. He is a Visiting Professor of Law at the Chinese University of Hong Kong, and The Open University, UK. He is Law columnist for The Times online, and Door Tenant at 36 Bedford Row. Professor Slapper is also a legal consultant to BBC drama and documentaries.
