Published Monthly

Sept/Oct 2011

Some of the younger staff here are off to the annual IBA conference in Dubai later this month. They look forward to meeting many of our international customers there.

The major publishing events this month will be Blackstone's Criminal Practice (see the ad p. 27) and the launch of the Incorporated Council of Law Reporting's new online service (see the ad p. 28).

Pictures this month are from John Pethick's visit to Antigua and Anguilla in September.

We understand Jim Smith is leaving Bloomsbury Professional at the end of the year. Our relationship with Jim goes back many years and we wish him well in the future.

Finally, we have received a letter from Spain saying "The Wildy brothers showed me great kindness as a young student, and I would like to repay the kindness, in a small way. Please find enclosed a note for coffee and cakes for the staff". The note mentioned, however, turned out to be a generous cash gift and we wish to thank the anonymous donor. It is enough to keep us in coffee and doughnuts for the rest of the year! The two brothers mentioned would have been W.E. Sinkins and Ken Sinkins, both of whom sadly passed away many years ago. W.E.'s son John and granddaughter Abbie continue the family connection with Wildy's. It is pleasing to know that someone still remembers the two brothers.

Following on from The Business of Judging (2000), the papers collected here tackle some of the major debates in British public life over the last decade, from reforming the constitution to the growth of human rights law. Foster, Charles, Human Dignity in Bioethics and

Law, Hart Publishing, Paperback, £30.00, ISBN: 9781849461771

In this ambitious, paradigm-shattering but highly readable book, Foster argues that dignity is the only sustainable Theory of Everything in bioethics. For most problems in contemporary bioethics, existing principles such as autonomy, beneficence, non-maleficence, justice and professional probity can do a reasonably workmanlike job if they are all allowed to contribute appropriately. But these are second order principles, each of which traces its origins back to dignity. And when one gets to the frontiers of bioethics (such as human enhancement), dignity is the only conceivable language with which to describe and analyse the strange conceptual creatures found there.

Drawing on clinical, anthropological, philosophical and legal insights, Foster provides a new lexicon and grammar of that language which will be essential reading for anyone wanting to travel in the outlandish territories of bioethics, and strongly recommended for anyone wanting to travel comfortably anywhere in bioethics or medical law.

For the 2010 Hamlyn Lectures, Alan Paterson explores different facets of three key institutions in a democracy: lawyers, access to justice and the judiciary. In the case of lawyers he asks whether professionalism is now in terminal decline. To examine access to justice, he discusses past and present crises in legal aid and potential end-games and in relation to judges he examines possible mechanisms for enhancing judicial accountability. In demonstrating that the benign paternalism of lawyers in determining the public good with respect to such issues is no longer unchallenged, he argues that the future roles of lawyers, access to justice and the judiciary will only emerge from dialogues with other stakeholders claiming to speak for the public interest.

IMPORTANT FORTHCOMING PUBLICATIONS

Blackstone's Guide to the Human Rights Act 1998 6th edition

by John Wadham, Helen Mountfield, Elizabeth Prochaska and Christopher Brown

Oxford University Press, Paperback, ISBN 9780199697007, due October 2011, £49.95

This book provides clear, concise coverage of the operation and application of the Human Rights Act 1998, discussing the successes and failures of the Act and the debate surrounding its possible eventual replacement with a Bill of Rights. The Guide assesses the case law of the European Court and analyses the impact of Convention rights in landmark domestic judgements across a wide range of areas, including terrorism, privacy, discrimination, and criminal law. It explains the interpretive techniques employed by the courts to read legislation compatibly with Convention rights, and maps the UK and Strasbourg courts' divergence in approach to certain areas of human rights protection. It also highlights the aspects of the Act that the courts have not yet clarified. It considers all relevant developments since the publication of the previous edition, including the government's proposals on a Commission for a Bill of Rights and possible changes to the Human Rights Act, and the developing contradictions between the jurisprudence of the European Court of Human Rights and domestic authorities. It also covers the Strasbourg procedures, implementation of Protocol 14 on improving the efficiency of the European Court, as well as the possible implementation of further rights. It explains the relationship between the European Convention and the new EU Charter of Fundamental Rights and includes coverage of all significant cases in the European Court, Court of Appeal, and Supreme Court. The book contains a copy of the Human Rights Act 1998 as amended, and the European Convention for the Protection of Fundamental Rights and Freedoms.

EU Antitrust Procedure 6th edition

by Nicholas Khan

Sweet & Maxwell, Hardcover, ISBN 9781847039095, £275.00, due December 2011

A recognised reference work in its field, EU Antitrust Procedure provides a thorough yet concise explanation of how the European Commission investigates infringements of EU competition law. It deals with topics such as the Commission's investigative powers, procedural rights of the parties concerned, the method for setting fines and judicial review against Commission decisions, as well as the relationship between the enforcement of EU competition law by the Commission and by national courts and competition authorities. The previous edition explained the fundamental changes made to the EU competition law regime by Regulation 1/2003, and this new edition analyses how these rules have been applied in practice and the further developments that have emerged, including the implications of over 200 judgments in the field from the European Court of Justice and the General Court since the previous edition. The author adopts a practitioner-focused approach, providing clear guidance on the procedures to follow. The latest developments in Commission practice, such as the Settlement Notice, the acceptance of commitments, the Best Practices guidance and the role of the Hearing Officer are considered, and explanation given on how the enforcement procedures of the Commission and those of national competition authorities are now interacting. Court judgments at both EU and national levels are examined, as well as how the Commission's 2006 Guidelines on Fines and Leniency Notice are being applied in practice.

Private Equity Exits: A Practical Analysis

edited by David Walker

Globe Law and Business, Hardcover, ISBN 9781905783502, due November 2011, £125.00

Exits are the lifeblood of private equity: for private equity investors, at the top of their list of priorities when making an investment is an understanding of when and how they will realise it in due course. The methods of exiting private equity investments have developed over the years, and particularly in the more challenging economic environment of recent times. To the usual trade sales and initial public offerings (IPOs) have been added secondary, tertiary (and more) buy-outs, re-financings, partial sales, private equity house spin-outs and liquidations. As the economic environment continues to improve, exits ought to become easier to achieve; but in these uncertain times, private equity houses will continue to put a significant focus on what options might be available to them to realise their portfolio investments, being mindful of not just the economic risks, but also the legal, tax, regulatory and reputational issues at stake. Management teams are key to this process and their economic, commercial and personal priorities cannot be underestimated in what is a very complex environment of often conflicting aspirations. This practical guide features contributions by leading specialists (including from Clifford Chance, Travers Smith, Freshfields and Macfarlanes) on a range of topics linked to the exit of private equity investments. Topics featured include preparing for exits, vendor diligence, management issues, auction sales, partial exits, private equity house spin-outs, IPOs, refinancing, winding-up, tax and the Luxembourg perspective.

Public Procurement Law: Damages as an Effective Remedy

by Duncan Fairgrieve and Francois Lichere

Hart Publishing, Hardcover, ISBN 9781849462174, due November 2011, £65.00

Public procurement represents more than 15 per cent of European GDP and is one of the fastest growing sectors of the European economy. Public procurement law is also fast-growing, not least in the area of remedies for breach of procurement rules. The aim of this book is to analyse the remedy of damages in public procurement law. The European directive of 11 December 2007 amending Council Directives 89/665/EEC and 92/13/EEC has reaffirmed the importance of damages as a tool to enforce the proper award of public contracts, but has left the exact architecture of the damages remedy in the hands of the Member States. This book offers an overview of damages liability which is inclusive, coherent and practical, covering the relevant law and jurisprudence from a number of countries across Europe and further afield. The contributors are high-profile and authoritative commentators on public procurement law, including policy-makers, judges, academics and practitioners.

Bermuda Form: Interpretation and Dispute Resolution of Excess Liability Insurance

David Scorey, Richard Geddes and Chris Harris

Oxford University Press, Hardcover, ISBN 9780199586614, due October 2011, £125.00

Providing analysis and interpretation on the construction of the Bermuda Form, this book also addresses the dispute resolution process and covers the legal and practical issues which arise in the international arbitration of large and complex disputes under it. Since the Bermuda Form was developed in response to the collapse of the US excess liability insurance market it has become an industry standard on which such insurance is written. Bermuda Form arbitrations have since been conducted in London or Bermuda over a period of more than 20 years and represent hugely detailed, complex, lengthy and expensive pieces of litigation. This book is a valuable guide even for experienced practitioners in this difficult area of the law, adding significantly to the nascent body of information on the analysis, interpretation and construction of the Bermuda Form. The book includes the full text of the Arbitration Act 1996 and the Bermuda Arbitration Act.

Child Case Management Practice 2nd edition

by Ernest Rider and Iain Goldrein

Jordan Publishing Ltd, Paperback, ISBN 9781846612640, due October 2011, £125.00

The family courts dealing with public and private child law cases are inundated with work, involving the generation of large amounts of paper. Far more effective is the creation of a file which, from the outset, focuses on material relevant to the judicial decision-making process. So for each application there needs to be an analysis of what the judicial hearing will actually require, with checklists, questionnaires etc specifying all the necessary information. Child Case Management Practice fulfils this need. Fully revised and updated, for each area of child law this new edition contains a succinct resume of the legal framework, a flowchart providing an overview of the relevant process from start to finish, detailed consideration of what the court will actually require to achieve the result applied for (including a timetable to trial and the court's options/powers), a checklist of all steps to trial, a template Model Order and a Case Digest. Child Case Management Practice reflects the revised Public Law Outline, generates best practice case management documents and provides synopses of the law for all the major applications. It also presents core skeleton arguments at a glance and focuses on the Case Management record. This new edition comes in a single volume to keep you abreast of all the latest developments in law and practice. It is designed for use by the Judiciary (including magistracy, justices' clerks, legal advisers), Barristers, Solicitors, Legal Executives, CAF/CASS, Local Authorities, Guardians, Ministry of Justice, Experts and the Legal Services Commission.
